We Need Your Help!

It is hard for a non-profit to get their news out. Especially if they are conscious of keeping overhead costs very low.

So we are asking for your assistance.

1. Please forward this email to at least 5 of your contacts who would be interested in the amazing work our grant recipients are doing. If they like what they see, they can opt in to receive our bi-monthly emails. There is a "Forward to a Friend" button at the top of the email.
2. Please visit our Facebook page and share at least 1 of our posts with your Friends.
3. Today tell someone about the Leo Buscaglia Foundation. Put love and good news out to the world!

Thank you!

President, Leo Buscaglia Foundation

Girls Rock Santa Barbara

empowers female youth and fosters self-confidence, creativity and teamwork by using music and female mentorship as tools for social change. They bring girls together from diverse backgrounds and give them the opportunity to expand their cultural awareness, develop life skills, and tell their unique story. It is less about playing an instrument and more about finding one's voice through music. Their participants already possess agency and power, and resist oppression in a myriad of creative ways; the Girls Rock program provides them the space, tools and network to amplify that power. Girls Rock Santa Barbara is driven by one simple motto: love the music you make, and love yourself for making it.

Girls Rock Santa Barbara runs a summer and after-school program for girls. They are working together to build a Santa Barbara where youth girls decide what it looks like and feels like to be a girl, trust and support each other, engage each other in a process of collective healing, recognize the power and pleasure of their own creativity, use music as a powerful way to communicate and exchange ideas, and have their voices valued in a collective community dialogue.

Happy Hats for Kids in Hospitals

Happy Hat's mission is to uplift the spirits, enrich lives and ease the fears of hospitalized children. They help shift their focus away from discomfort and pain through educational, and interactive family activities.

They help raise the self-esteem and independence of disabled youths with special needs, autism, down syndrome, cerebral palsy, and visual and hearing impairments. Through their vital transition to work program, communication and motor skills are significantly improved.

Happy Hats used their grant to serve kids in 71 hospitals through out the United States, through their Hero Happy Hats program and coordinating dispersion of a 60-page Hero Club bilingual, educational, story/activity books with crayons. Every child, upon hospital admission receives these packages at no cost to the families or hospitals. The children learn that courage and bravery comes from within and each child is truly a "HERO."
