The Healing WELL

The Healing WELL, a 2019 grant recipient, was featured in the San Francisco Chronicle.

"Long, 59, goes to this one spot for yoga. And acupuncture. And 12-step addiction recovery meetings. He sometimes gets lunch there, too, but that's not why Long and nearly 200 other homeless and poor people come to the Healing Well in San Francisco every month.

They come to feed their souls. That may sound a bit fuzzy - but time after time, that's how the Healing Well is described by those who've been coming to it since it was founded in the heart of the gritty Tenderloin four years ago."

Care Through Touch Institute

Care Through Touch Institute received a grant for their transportation fund to underwrite the cost of transportation for their massage volunteers ensuring that they will be able to volunteer a minimum of twice monthly. CTI's mission is to accompany, comfort and empower homeless and marginally housed people through safe therapeutic seated massage therapy and compassionate supportive presence.

Together with a caring and supportive presence, Care Through Touch Institute constitutes a public act of charity and justice that transforms providers, empowers recipients, and awakens society to the human and spiritual needs of those who are ignored, invisible, and pushed to the margins of society.

Teacher’s Fund

Teacher’s Fund received a grant to assist with supplies and other materials as requested by teachers in Santa Barbara County. Teacher’s Fund supports transitional kindergarten through 12th grade teachers in southern Santa Barbara County, Santa Ynez, Buellton, Los Olivos, Solvang and Lompoc public and private schools by granting funds for classroom needs not met by other sources.

Helping one teacher can have an impact on hundreds of students. A school librarian introduced an engineering unit where they read engaging, age appropriate books for K-6th graders that encourage building and design. After reading, students had the opportunity to build with different modalities. The librarian shared “important cross curricular standards were met and most importantly, students were engaged” Her one request directly impacted 604 K- 6th grades students at her school.
